

ABSTRACT

A method for a memory device utility program includes (1) detecting a memory device being coupled to a host device, (2) in response to said detecting, locating files on the memory device, (3) displaying a file transfer page comprising a file transfer button for transferring the files on the memory device to the host device, and (4) in response to a user selecting the transfer button, transferring the files on the memory device to the host device.